Events and Entertaining

Whatever the occasion, successful entertaining begins with the right venue: one that makes an outstanding first impression, creates a spectacular atmosphere, and adds kudos and value to your event.

National Museums Scotland offers a collection of museums accustomed to hosting a broad range of events; from board meetings for 12 guests to high-profile awards dinners for 950, all in the expert care of our dedicated events team.

"We received outstanding feedback from clients and colleagues. The venue was spectacular and your help in the preparation was invaluable."

National Museum of Scotland

The National Museum of Scotland has been the country's treasure house of both national and world collections for almost 150 years. A £47.6 million refurbishment, completed in 2011, enhanced and revitalised existing spaces and introduced new galleries, displays and facilities. The result is a stunning and flexible venue for all manner and size of events.

Grand Gallery

The Grand Gallery exudes elegance with its Victorian pillars, sweeping staircases and light, bright, glass-roofed atrium. The spectacular space can now entertain even more of your guests for award dinners, receptions, fashion shows or product launches.

Significant exhibits, from a cast-iron fountain to a Nubian statue, add visual interest and hint at the collections beyond. The breathtaking backdrop is further enhanced by the myriad of objects which make up the four-storey Window on the World, the largest single museum installation in the UK.

Entrance Hall

The recent transformation created a new street-level Entrance Hall, which is itself available for hire. The subtly-lit vaulted arches and stone columns offer an impressive yet relaxed setting for drinks receptions prior to dinner in the Grand Gallery.

Discoveries Gallery

Adjacent to the Grand Gallery, the legacy of Scottish innovation, leadership and ideas creates an impressive backdrop to drinks receptions for up to 250 guests. The towering Millennium Clock, with its intricate figures and movement, makes a great talking point at the Discoveries Gallery entrance.

Galleries

Many of the 16 new galleries are available for events, including the Special Exhibition Gallery, which hosts international touring exhibitions. Private views for guests can be arranged, either on their own or as part of a reception or dinner, and could even inspire the theme for your event.

Auditorium, South Hall and Event space

The 200-seat auditorium has all the latest audio-visual equipment including WiFi, expertly backed up by a full team of technicians, to host lectures, meetings and conferences. There are also two large areas next to the auditorium where you can register attendees, hold an exhibition or break for coffee or lunch.

Hawthornden Court

Hawthornden Court
and Kingdom of the Scots Gallery

Hawthornden Court is the light, central atrium in the modern part of the Museum. Atmospheric lighting and the clean lines of the interior create a dramatic backdrop for drinks, dinners and entertainment.

The adjacent Kingdom of the Scots Gallery allows guests to explore the cultural and political history of Scotland as part of an elegant evening reception.

Early People Gallery

The Early People Gallery offers a more intimate setting for drinks, dinners and presentations, while taking guests back in time to the first 900 years of man's existence in Scotland.

Connect Gallery

You can add interest to receptions and informal gatherings in the Connect Gallery, full of thrilling interactives and objects bringing science and technology to life. Guests can meet Dolly the sheep, the world's first cloned animal, or test their Formula 1 driving skills in the racing car simulator.

Dunfermline Room

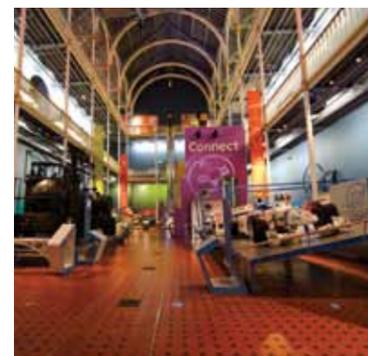

The 40-seater Dunfermline Room lecture theatre comfortably accommodates presentations, meetings and seminars.

The Board and Bute Rooms

Within the tower of the National Museum of Scotland and offering outstanding Edinburgh views, the Board Room and Bute Room have earned an enviable reputation among the city's top venues. Elegant interiors, floor-to-ceiling picture windows overlooking Edinburgh Castle and a Roof Terrace embracing the historic Old Town skyline combine to create a superb setting for a variety of day and evening events.

Concorde Experience, National Museum of Flight

National Museum of Flight

The National Museum of Flight lies just to the east of Edinburgh at East Fortune, Britain's best-preserved First and Second World War airfield. The Museum is home to more than 50 of the most memorable military and passenger aircraft in aviation history, including that icon of the skies, Concorde.

The Concorde Experience provides a glamorous and prestigious setting when you really want your event to take off in style.

"Our clients have quoted this trip as the best of the past 14 years and Concorde's wow factor and uniqueness certainly made a big contribution."

National Museum of Rural Life

The National Museum of Rural Life is only eight miles from Glasgow city centre in tranquil South Lanarkshire countryside. Set on a working 1950s farm, the purpose-built Museum adds elements of Scotland's agricultural heritage and country living to your event. Dine next to a combine harvester in the Alistair Grant Gallery or head outdoors for a day of team-building pursuits.

Weddings and Receptions

Each Museum brings its own special charm and sumptuous setting to weddings, civil ceremonies and receptions.

Choose a setting that reflects something about you as a couple: raise your glasses in a toast next to Concorde or tie in the natural appeal of farming life. Whether your personal style is elegantly traditional or sleekly modern, the National Museum of Scotland has the ideal wedding venue for you.

From small intimate gatherings to grand marquee parties, the Museums will add to the wonderful memories of your big day.
